

absolutely. learning management system

Chase forgetful employees with Nagware

Nagware

Even the most conscientious employees need the occasional reminder to finish their outstanding training. As cut off dates approach, chasing up employees can become a full time chore.

That's why we've introduced Nagware, a customised email suite that automatically prompts employees to complete relevant courses without any deadline day drama.

Nagware benefits

- Wipes out laborious and expensive manual processes.
- Pushes up completion rates.
- Eradicates errors and oversights.
- Delivers a customised, personal approach.
- Runs in line with each organisation's timetable.

How does it work in practice?

Nagware does what you tell it to do. It is the brawn to your brains. Once you choose the number, sequence and tone of the emails, it will never tire of enforcing your will.

Working with your Absolutely Training Client Relationship Manager, there are two simple steps to take before Nagware starts working for you.

Who is working smarter?

Two companies are one month away from a regulatory training deadline. One still uses manual processes, the other is using Nagware.

Option A: Manual

For four weeks in a row, Company A will be manually:

1. Logging into the Learning Management System.
2. Accessing and checking completion reports.
3. Composing reminder emails.
4. Populating with email addresses.
5. Distributing reminders completion rates.

Option B: Nagware

1. Once Nagware is launched company B will be conducting business as usual.
2. The Learning Management System automatically sends regular, customised emails to employees until training has been completed.

If you picked Option B, Nagware, call us on 0845 130 5140.

This is a standard feature of Skills Hub™ and can be added at no extra charge.

absolutely. train smarter, act faster.